Proposed Industrial Action

Dear Parent/Carer,

As you may know, a number of trade unions are planning strike action on Wednesday 30th November. This action is not against Parwich Primary School itself but part of national industrial action organised by public sector unions in response to changes to the pension schemes of their members.

On Tuesday, I was given an indication of the numbers of staff at Parwich intending to take action and can confirm that school will remain OPEN.

In making the decision about whether to open the school, I have to take into account many factors:

- the health and safety of all pupils and staff
- whether all or part of the school timetable can be taught
- whether necessary duties can be undertaken by appropriate staff in the school
- fire safety and any effect on evacuation and related procedures
- security, reception, arrangements for emergencies and building access issues
- first aid and any necessary alternative arrangements
- adequate supervision for all employees and students

We look forward to seeing everyone bright eyed and bushy tailed as usual!

Yours sincerely,

Caroline Rodgers
